College is not always an easy endeavor. The requirements of college can be very demanding and often extremely frustrating. Frequently, we get too caught up in the pressures and problems of college life to remember the many special aspects that distinguish Salem from other colleges. It is for this reason that the theme of the 1986 Sights and Insights reminds us that, "There's only one you."

Salem offers a young woman an extremely valuable liberal arts education. Though she is not the only college that offers this type of education, no other college teaches us quite like Salem does. The professors and students not only have the traditional student-teacher classroom relationship, but often a special kind of friendship as well. The professors here are not only concerned with our educational development, but also with our personal development; they help us with problems both in and out of the classroom.

The social life here at Salem is also unique, offering many opportunities for friendships to begin and grow. Various dances and mixers are held throughout the year that both students and faculty attend. In addition, traditions like Big-Sister, Little-Sister allow us to form special and lasting friendships with our classmates. Other events such as Fall Fest, Parents' Weekend, and Father-Daughter weekend allow us to share good times with friends and family. Also, Salem-sponsored weekend trips, such as camping and rafting outings, give students opportunities for fun off-campus.

Many other aspects distinguish Salem from other colleges, including our family-style dinners, the small size of the campus and classrooms, January term, self-scheduled exams, and the special events that occur at Christmas. Our honor system and student-run government are also very important to Salem. But possibly the most special aspects of Salem are the friendships that develop here. These friendships follow us through the good and bad times of college life, and will always remain special in our memories.

It is not always easy to take time out of our busy schedules to take advantage of everything that makes Salem such a special place. We hope that this year's annual will serve as a reminder of Salem's importance. Salem allows us to grow as unique individuals, yet still remain a "family". And as we travel past college life, a part of Salem will always be with us.

An Introduction To Life At Salem

Orientation at Salem is a special time for all people involved. It is a time for freshmen and transfer students to learn about all aspects of life here, both academic and social. Orientation also gives new students a chance to get accustomed to their new surroundings for a few days before the rest of the student body arrives.

Orientation began even before the freshmen and transfer students arrived on campus. On August 20, the Orientation Committee, consisting of hall advisors, peer advisors, and dorm officers, arrived at Salem. The members of the committee, headed by Monica Carter, this year's chairman, learned skills in leadership, initiative, group counseling, and communication. They also prepared for the new students' arrival by making name signs for their doors and decorating cups to use in the refectory. In addition, the orientation committee performed a skit to give the new students a better idea of what their years at Salem might be like.

When the freshmen and transfer students arrived on Saturday, August 24, the Orientation Committee helped them unload their belongings and get settled in their rooms. The new students spent the period of orientation meeting people on campus, learning rules, regulations, and standards of Salem, and getting to know the people in their dorms. Dorm meetings and hall meetings were held to teach the students about life in the residence halls. The new students attended workshops and also became acquainted with President and Mrs. Litzburg, Dean Johnson, and Dean Sullivan.

Orientation marked the beginning of each student's learning experience at Salem. It was a special time for new students to make new friends and learn all about the opportunities that Salem has to offer.

Big Sister/Little Sister Picnic

The day was grey and overcast, but with food provided by Epicure, entertainment provided by the Archways, and enthusiasm provided by Salem juniors and freshmen, the weather was forgotten. For the freshmen, the Big Sister/Little Sister Picnic marks the official beginning of the most special tradition that Salem has to offer. The picnic is a time for juniors and freshmen to begin relationships that will grow during their sophomore and seniors years and endure for many years to come. Indeed, this special sisterhood is something unique, and it should be fully enjoyed by every young woman while attending Salem, and throughout her life.

Salem's 214th Year Begins

Salem's 214th year officially began with Opening Convocation on August 28, 1985. This annual ceremony welcomes new members to our special community and officially marks the start of a new academic year. This event also is the first time that the seniors wear their caps and gowns.

The night of Opening Convocation gave new students a chance to begin to fully understand just how special Salem can be and how much Salem has to offer a young woman. Many people on campus, including representatives from SGA, the Alumnae Association, and Dr. Litzenburg, gave our new students a warm welcome at this special time.

Opening Convocation is a ceremony in which all students are reminded that we are all part of a unique tradition here, that Salem is a place like no other.

Many things about Salem and her students are unique and special, and Fall Fest, Salem's "official" greeting to fall, is certainly one of them. Every year at the end of September, Salem suspends classes for a day and gives her own personal salute to fall. Fall Fest is an opportunity for each class to begin and deepen friendships, and hold friendly competitions against all other classes.

"See Ya in the Funnies" was the theme of Fall Fest '85. Through the leadership and hard work of chairwoman Lucianne Snullivan and everyone else involved, the day was a huge success. As is tradition, the day consisted of an early-morning wake-up by the seniors, breakfast, entrance, picnic in the square, games, dinner, skits and songs. After all of the competitions, an after-party was held on Clewell Patio.

Each class represented a comic strip. The freshmen represented "Beetle Bailey", the sophomores, "The Smurfs", the juniors, "Popeye", and the seniors, "The Peanuts Gang". It was no surprise to anyone that the seniors captured first place in the overall competition.

All of the songs, smiles, fun and friendships throughout the day reminded everyone what a truly special day Fall Fest is.

Salem Seniors Honor A Special Friend

Choosing a person for the Sights and Insights dedication is a difficult job. So many people make Salem a special place that it is hard to single out one person to honor. However, this year's recipient is very special to us all; she has shown a genuine love for Salem and its students.

Mrs. Della Carlton is a much-loved well-respected member of the Salem Community. She joined our community as a Residence Hall Director in 1981, first living in Clewell for two years, and then moving to Babcock where she now lives.

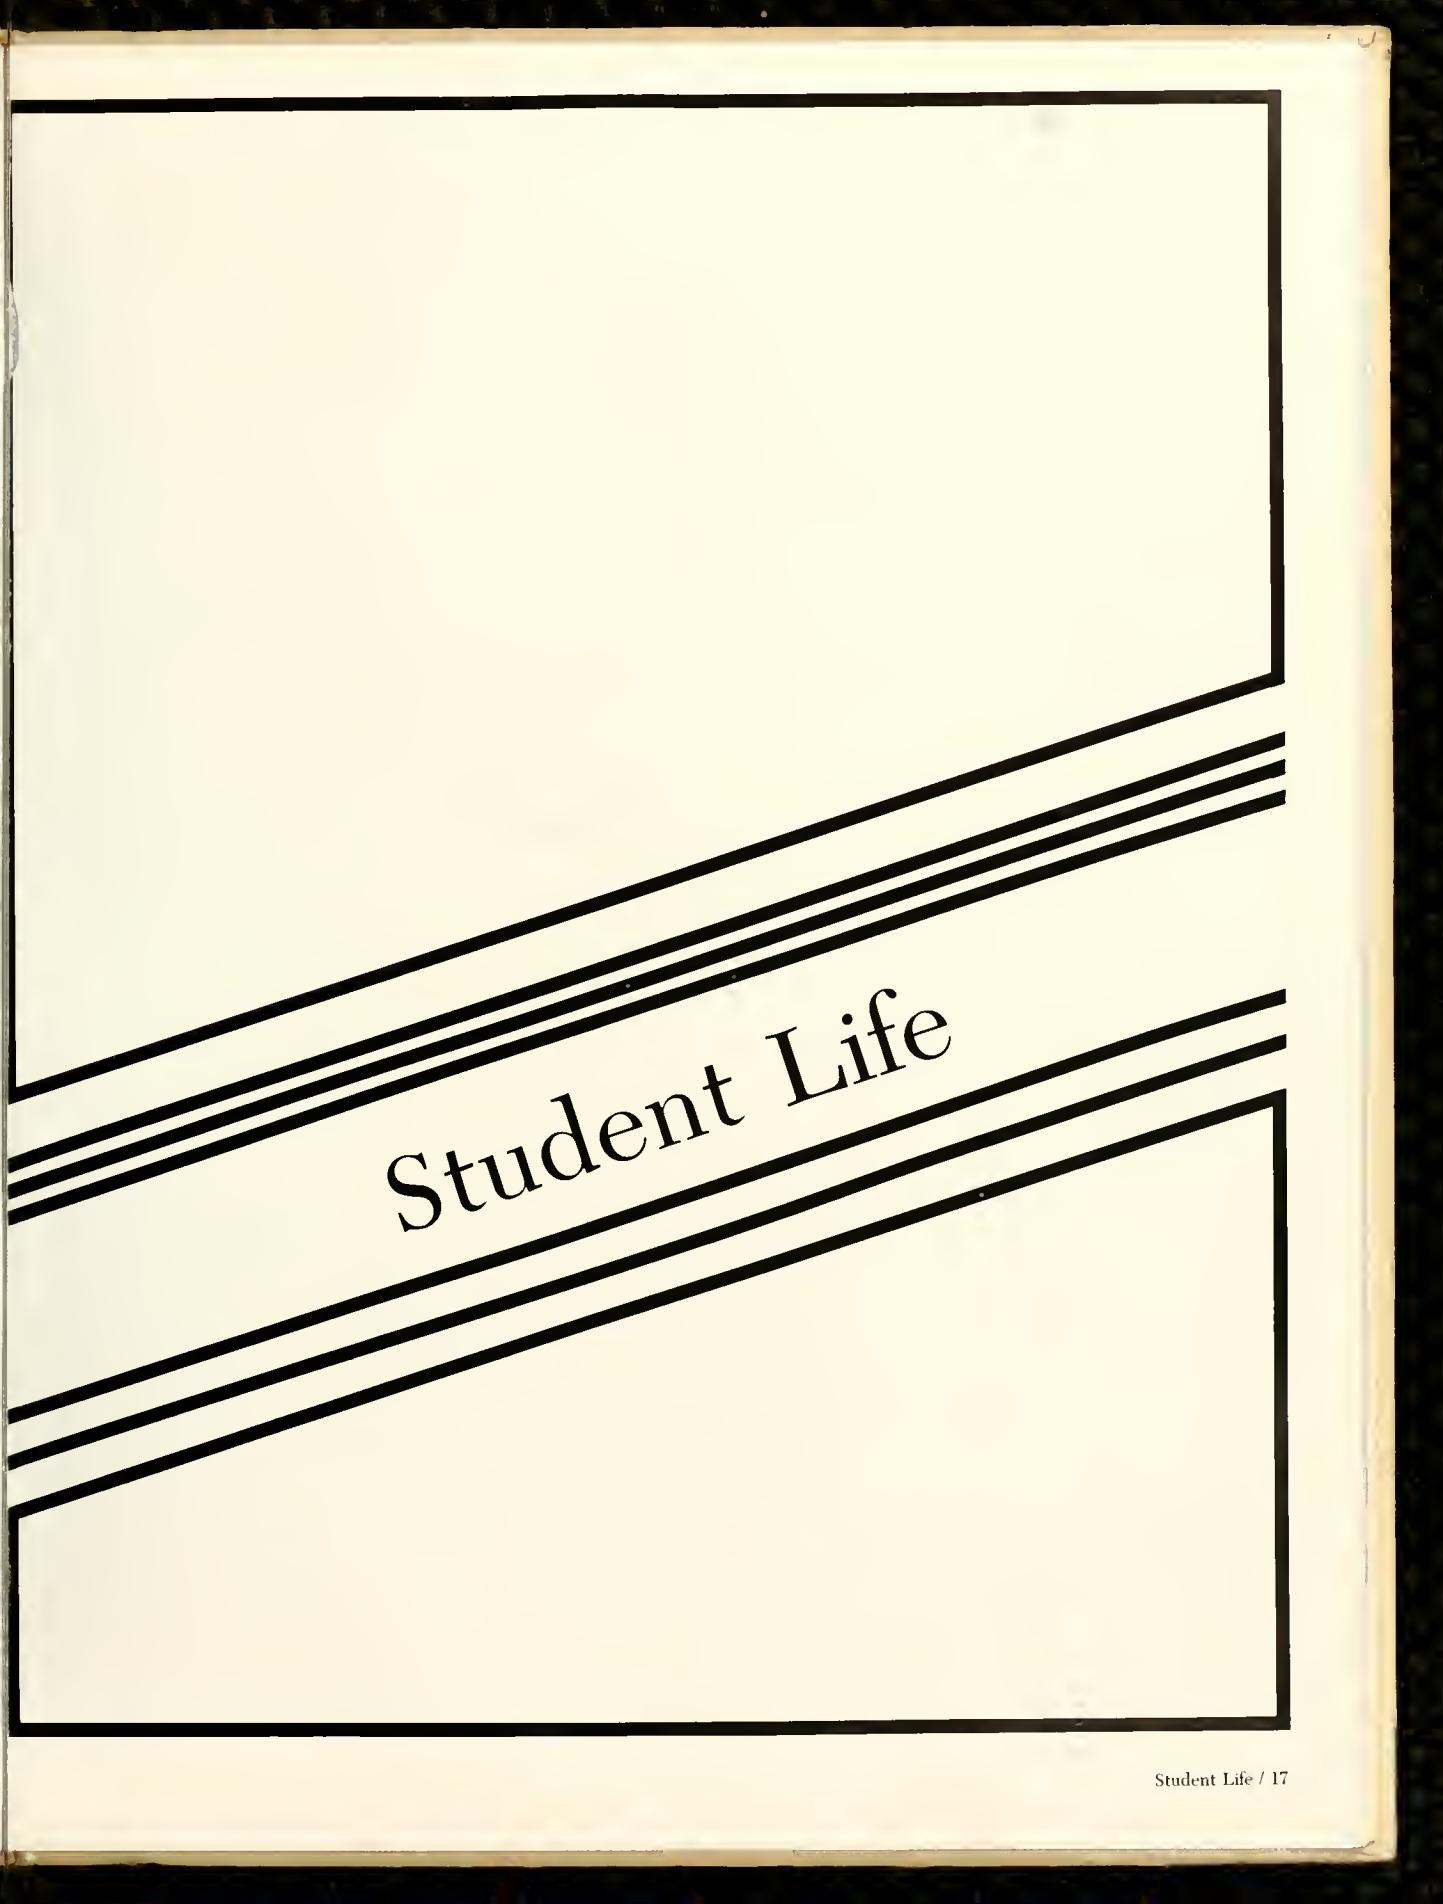

Mrs. Carlton is from Salisbury, N.C. She attended the Woman's College in Greensboro (which is now UNC-G) for 2 years and then went on to UNC-CH. She has eight children, the youngest of whom is still in college.

Besides being an RHD, Mrs. Carlton does many things around our campus. She sits in for Becky Pack when Becky has errands to do. She loves to decorate and enjoys refinishing old furniture. In addition, she and Mrs. Budd do the lovely flower arrangements that we all enjoy around campus.

Mrs. Carlton loves old things, and places much emphasis on her heritage. This love for tradition and the past always flows over into her attitude about Salem. Mrs. Carlton feels that Salem's Honor System is important, and respects the way in which our government is student-run.

Furthermore, Mrs. Carlton is always cheerful and smiling, a traditional "southern belle". She is especially willing to help students or faculty with anything they might need, no matter how busy she may be. She looks after "her" girls in a "motherly" fashion, but still lets them lead their lives independently enough to grow on their own. Mrs. Carlton touches the lives of everyone in our community in one way or another—whether it is through her beautiful flower arrangements or by helping CAC set up for a mixer in Babcock basement. Mrs. Carlton is much loved by everyone at Salem, and it is for this reason that the class of 1986 dedicates this year's Sights and Insights to her.

Salem on Safari

Jungle Love was rampant during Big 3+3's Salem Safari Dance Weekend October 25-27, 1985. The hunt was on to find a date, and for those Salem women who were brave enough to trudge through the treacherous dating jungle, the reward was a super time at Salem's dance weekend.

The weekend started with an informal mixer on Friday night, held on Clewell patio. The music, mostly Top-Forty, was provided by D.J. Richard Sprinkle. On Saturday, the Athletic Association sponsored volleyball games for everyone at the Student Life and Fitness Center. Saturday night, most couples went out to eat, then went to a semi-formal dance at the Elk's Lodge. Xenon, a band from Raleigh, provided upbeat dance music for everyone. The Elk's was decorated with green balloons and posters to achieve a "Safari" look. The weekend came to a close after a picnic held at Tanglewood Park Sunday afternoon provided a relaxing break with the music of Spiedel, Goodrich, and Lille.

Parents and Daughters Share a Special Weekend

Parents' Weekend this year was a huge success. It was held from November 1-3, beginning on Friday afternoon with the parents' registration for the weekend. Dinner was served in the refectionary, followed by Lantern Tours through Old Salem and the College.

Saturday morning, the Litzenburg's hosted a reception at their home, giving the parents a chance to meet and get to know our president and his family, and to see what a unique and special relationship they have with our school. The parents then had an opportunity to watch students perform a synchronized swimming program, a school volleyball tournament, and attend a forum of mock classes. A delicious candlelight dinner was served in the refectionary. After-dinner entertainment included a preview of the Pierettes' production of "The Boyfriend", and a program of "Salem Through the Centuries".

Sunday ended the weekend with a Moravian Lovefeast Service and a wonderful brunch in the refectionary.

Marlene Welte served as chairman of the Parents' Weekend Committee, and along with her committee members, put in a lot of hard work to make the weekend enjoyable for all involved. This special weekend is quite important, for it lets our parents see a portion of our life here at Salem. This weekend gives them the chance to get to know us in our surroundings, and to see what a special life we have here at Salem.

Halloween: An Exciting Evening at Salem

Numerous events took place on campus as Halloween blew in like a witch on her broom. The Epicure Staff dressed up in full costume and prepared a special Halloween dinner of anything a witch could ever want: pizza, deli sandwiches, Halloween cake, and many other treats. Students and staff alike dressed up for the festivities.

This year, the Off-Campus Association sponsored a haunted house and a Halloween party. The day student center was the site for this frightful house. Refreshments such as ghostly green punch, brownies, and candy were served afterwards for the "survivors" of the haunted house.

Thanksgiving with the Spongetones

On Saturday, November 23, Salem got a "groovy" dose of the '60's when the Spongetones came to town for our Thanksgiving mixer. The Spongetones, a Charlotte-based band, put on an exciting show with their renditions of '60's favorites like the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, the Monkees, and Herman's Hermits, as well as their own tunes.

The "Turkey Tango" was held at the Home Environment building at the Dixie Classic Fairgrounds. The combination of the Spongetones and over a hundred Salem students and their dates turned the cold, bare warehouse into a party to be remembered.

Thanksgiving at Salem

The Epicure staff prepared a wonderful dinner for Thanksgiving this year. Served buffet style, students and faculty feasted on a meal more than fit for a Pilgrim. Everyone was dressed in holiday finery to eat turkey, roast beef, stuffing, homemade rolls, pumpkin pie, and many other delicacies.

Thanksgiving dinner is a time to realize and appreciate all of the wonderful things in our life. More important than the material things in life, which we so often take for granted, we can be thankful for the special lifetime friendships that we cultivate here at Salem. The dinner held here in honor of Thanksgiving this year gave us all a chance to reflect on the aspects of our life which we so often take for granted in our hurried world, and to relax and enjoy the company of good friends and good food.

Salem Presents "The Boyfriend"

When the lights came on on the evening of November 7 for the first performance of "The Boyfriend", the house was full. People were standing in the doorways and sitting in the aisles in order to view the performance. The Pierette cast and crew worked many long hours in order to achieve the degree of superior quality which was exemplified in their performances on November 7 and 8. Weeks of labor went into preparing the sets, devising the costumes, and learning lines, dance routines and musical numbers. Both performances drew a full house, and were enjoyed by all. The dance routines and musical numbers were very well executed.

Christmas at Salem College

Christmas at Salem is a time for festivities, tradition, and closeness among friends. The festivities began this year with the delicious Christmas dinner and tree lighting on December 2. The epicure staff worked diligently to prepare a sumptuous dinner for us. On December 3, Dr. James Boeringer held a dramatic candlelight reading of "A Christmas Carol." Keeping with tradition, the senior class joined together to trim the red paper for the candles to be used at the Candlelight Service on December 5.

The Candlelight Service is the height of the Christmas season at Salem. This year, Salem's music department put on a beautiful concert to accompany the service. Performers in the concert included members of the Chorale, the Salem Boy's Choir, and the Chamber Choir. Following the concert was the annual Candlelight service, which was extremely inspiring. The service encouraged us to come closer together as a community to celebrate this special time of the year.

During the week following the Candlelight Service, there were many opportunities for students to become involved in the Christmas celebrations that take place in Old Salem. Students could join residents of Winston-Salem and tourists at the Moravian Candle Tea, the MESDA Christmas Open House, and special Christmas tours of Old Salem.

The Christmas season at Salem is a special time, a time to let friendships grow, and a time for students and faculty to build new relationships through extracurricular activities like the Christmas dinner. It gives students the opportunity to become involved with the Winston-Salem community. Most importantly, the Christmas season at Salem is a time for us to appreciate what we have here — the potential for neverending friendship.

The 1986 Sophomore-Senior Banquet was a huge success due to the hard work and creativity of the sophomore class. "A Chorus Line" was the theme of this year's banquet. Dinner and entertainment were held in Corrin Refectory, starting at 7:00 P.M. on March 5.

The evening began after the seniors were serenaded into the building by the sophomores. After a wonderful dinner including spinach salad, stuffed chicken, french bread and cheese, and chocolate mousse, the entertainment began. The Sophomores took their creativity to the limits with a well-executed version of "A Chorus Line."

Overall chairmen for the banquet were Melissa Haneline and Catherine Penry. Kelly Zappa and Laura Arndt were choreography chairmen.

Vanities

The Pierrette Players of Salem College performed the play "Vanities" on March 13 and 14. The Pierrettes took their captive audiences back to the sixties with their entertaining performance of the Jack Heifner comedy.

Cast members included Jane Moury as Joanne, Dena Jansen as Kathy, and Helen Hagan as Mary. The presentation was directed by Mary Lucy Bivens.

Organizations

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association at Salem College is a strong one. Each member of the student body attends all SGA meetings, votes on new policies for the school, and has an opportunity to actively participate in the major decisions which will affect all members of the college. The major committees which comprise the leaders of SGA are Executive Board, Legislative Board, Honor Council, Interdorm Council, and Publication Board.

Executive Board is made up of the President of SGA, the Chairman of Honor Council, the Chairman of Interdorm, the Vice-President of SGA, Secretary and Treasurer. Responsibilities of Executive Board include coordinating the functions of SGA, acting as a link between students, faculty, and administration, and reviewing the activities of the Elections Committee.

Members of Legislative Board include all Executive Board officers, class presidents, dorm representatives, and the Chief Marshall, among many other students. The members of Legislative Board serve as a liaison between students and the Executive Board, as well as considering applications for new campus clubs and making petitions known to all students.

Honor Council strives to uphold our Honor Tradition by investigating and acting upon infractions of the Honor Code, by treating all cases individually and with confidentiality, as well as helping to supervise the self-scheduling exam system. Honor council works hard all year to make our system work for us, so that we can continue to have privileges that exist only as a result of this system.

Interdorm Council is composed of the Interdorm Chairman, Presidents of all Residence Halls, the Secretary of Interdorm, the President of SGA and Honor Council Chairman. Interdorm works with the residence halls to handle any upper level social infractions, as well as review any proposed revision of our social procedures when necessary. A favorable change by Interdorm this year was the extension of male visitation hours.

Publications Board appoints the editors of Salem's publications such as Sights and Insights, the Salemite, and Incunabula. Publications Board establishes deadlines for the upcoming year, as well as reviewing budget requests and expenditures for each publication.

Marshals and Arete

The Marshals are made up of those students in the junior class who are chosen by class rank. They assist at college programs such as lectures, concerts, graduation and S.G.A. meetings. The marshals work hard to let all of the student body know what events will be taking place on campus. Suzanne Moye served as Chief Marshal this year.

Arete, Salem's chapter of Mortar Board, is an honor society for senior women who have shown ability and achievement in academic work, leadership skills, and service to the college and the community.

The Peer Advisor program, which began two years ago, is a program between incoming freshmen and selected juniors and seniors who have a commendable academic record at Salem. Peer Advisors are there to help freshmen make the transition into college life and get off to a good start academically.

Peer Advisors participate in training sessions to learn leadership skills and specific ways to help freshmen during orientation. Peer advisors try to help freshmen establish a proper balance between academic and social life, and are available to answer any questions the new students may have.

The President's Council is made up of a group of students and President Litzenburg. The students that serve on the President's Council include all class presidents, the members of Executive Board, the leaders of the Off-Campus Association, and the editors of the Salemite. The purpose of this group is to keep President Litzenburg in touch with the events going on around Salem and to discuss current issues and problems of the Salem community.

SALEM HOSPITALITY

The Ambassadors and Fremdendienerin are groups at Salem which provide a link between Salem students, Alumnae and prospective students. These groups strive to make those affiliated with Salem outside the Salem Community feel comfortable and welcome when participating in Salem activities.

The Ambassadors are associated with the Alumnae and Development offices. The members serve as hostesses to Alumnae gatherings and meetings, as well as organizing the annual phonathon and the Senior Pledge Drive. The Ambassadors also serve as a link between Alumnae and students.

Fremdendienerin, a German word meaning "one who serves strangers," is connected with the Admissions Office. The members work hard to make prospective students feel welcome at the student overnights, which they organize. They give tours of our campus. Fremdendienerin also plans and participates in admissions seminars.

OFF-CAMPUS ASSOCIATION

Salem students enjoy the Haunted House sponsored by the Off-Campus Association.

The Off-Campus Association is made up of students who are concerned with and interested in integrating non-resident students into the Salem College community. The Association strives to improve the interaction and to promote relationships between traditional and non-traditional aged students, and between day students and boarding students.

The Off-Campus Association sponsors many special functions throughout the year. These functions include a Halloween party and haunted house, a Christmas banquet, and a faculty luncheon. The association also contributes to the Winston-Salem community by helping local charitable organizations, including The United Way, North Carolina Food Bank, and The Shelter for Battered Women.

The Off-Campus Association is very important to our community because the members work very hard to help increase interaction between all of our students — between day students and resident students, and between CE students and traditional aged students.

Fun For One And All

A great way to spend Friday night — at Friday Night Live sponsored by C.A.C.

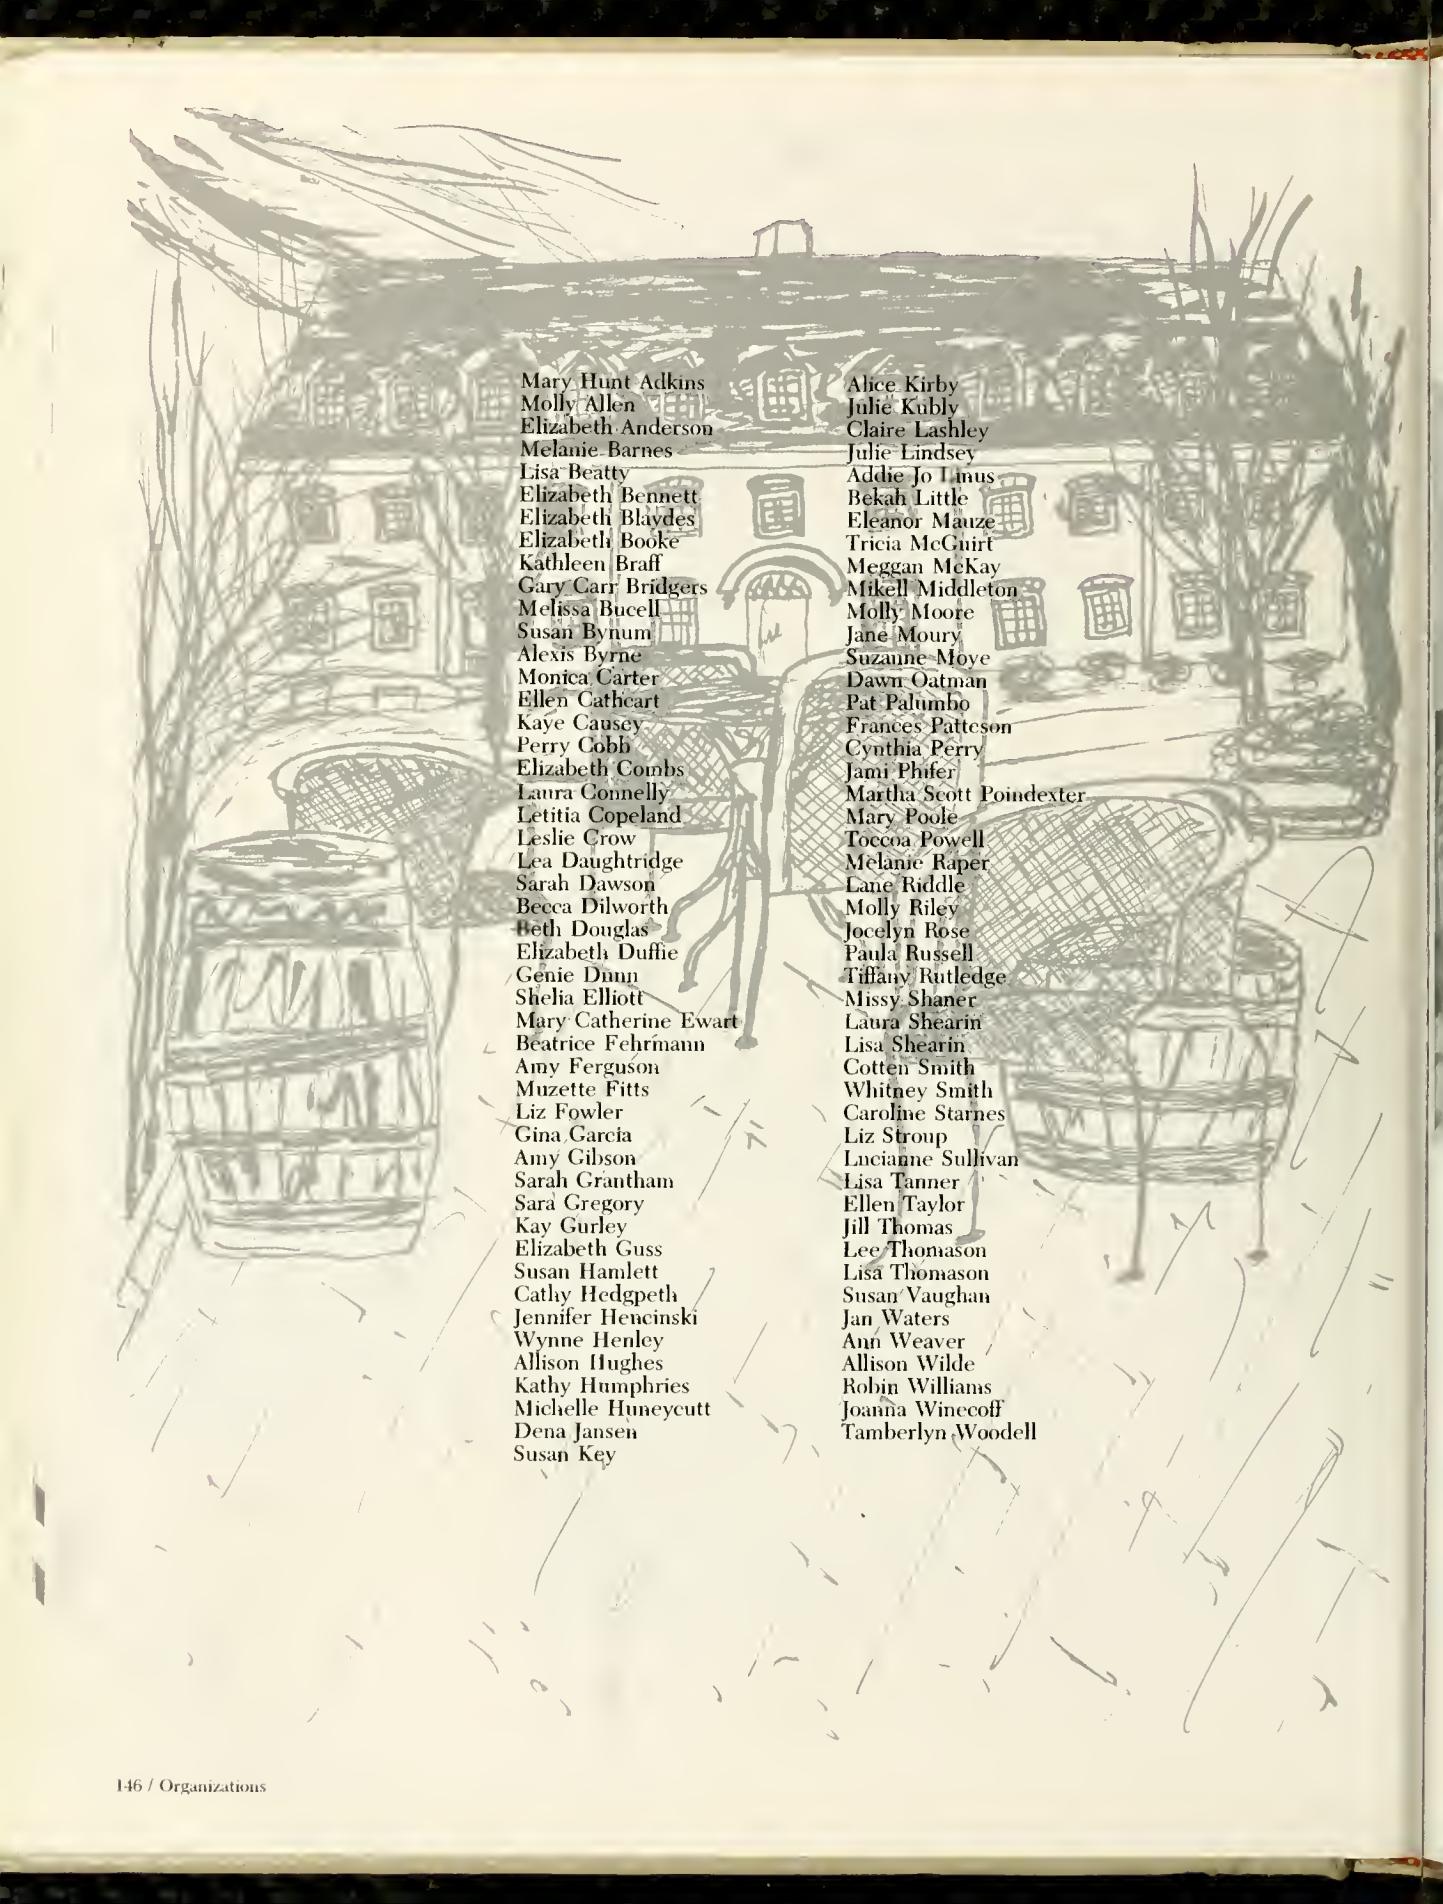

Big 3+3 and Campus Activities Council (C.A.C.) are two organizations responsible for entertainment on campus. Big 3+3 is responsible for planning six major social events for the student body, including three dances and three mixers. Events sponsored by Big 3+3 this year included Interclub Weekend, Thanksgiving Mixer, Valentine's Dance, Spring Fling Mixer, and I.R.S. Dance Weekend. Marcy Svoboda served as this year's chairman, and Lynn Morrow served as vice-chairman.

This year, C.A.C. sponsored events such as Friday Night Live in the Student Center, on-campus mixers and parties, outdoor trips, and other travel opportunities. Clay Corpening served as chairman.

Salem Athletic Association (S.A.A.) is Salem's link to athletic activities on campus. S.A.A. promotes events, activities, and projects related to sports and recreation on this campus and in the community. S.A.A. also plans Salem's intramural program.

Salemites Explore the World of Science While Others Increase Alcohol Awareness on Campus

Lablings is a group which brings together individuals who are interested in science, with both majors and non-majors alike participating. Lablings strive to acquaint students with the science activities in today's world, career opportunities in scientific fields, and general concerns and interests of the group. They take various field trips, including one to the Smithsonian Institute to see the different exhibits. They also sponsor lectures on various science-related topics. For those students who will not be on campus, Lablings also offers a plant-sitting service during Christmas vacation and January Term.

BACCHUS stands for "Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students." It is an organization which is interested in alcohol awareness on campus. One way in which they inform students is by promoting responsible drinking. The members of Bacchus are not necessarily opposed to the act of drinking, but instead are opposed to drinking and then acting irresponsibly. Bacchus provides alternatives to alcohol by serving "mocktails" to non-drinkers and underaged students at mixers and dances. They also provide a van service to and from dances and other social functions in order to prevent students from drinking and driving.

Bacchus also strives to educate students by providing speakers and literature on alcohol-related issues. The club's key focus this year has been on women and alcohol. They hope to grow each year, and to help Salem deal effectively with new issues as they arise, such as the increase in the drinking age in the Fall of 1986.

Under the direction of Salemite Co-editors Laney Frick, Maryanne McDonough, and Liz McGehee, the quality of Salem's student newspaper continued to improve over the course of the 1985-86 academic year. The quality of news copy was strengthened, and the variety of articles printed in the paper expanded. The Salemite staff covered topics of significance to the college both on and off campus including the Apartheid crisis in South Africa, the Geneva arms summit between President Reagan and Soviet Premier Gorbachev, local soup kitchens, eating disorders, Salem sports, new academic policies, changes in state drinking policies, and the work of the Committee on the Mission of the College. The 1985-86 Co-editors wish to thank the members of the Salemite staff, of Exec Board, and of the faculty and administration who have contributed articles, pictures, advice, and support for their help in publishing the Salemite this year.

AND INSIGHTS

Sights and Insights, Salem's yearbook, strives to capture the important events and people on campus, reflecting on the past school year through both pictures and words. Though the results are not visible until Spring when the yearbook is distributed, the staff works diligently throughout the year to capture memories of Salem on paper. Amanda Shute and Kim Wally served as Co-Editors this year.

Salem Students Get

At Salem there are many opportunities for us to help each other and those in the community. Often Salem women show their concern for others in the form of clubs, such as Circle K, International Club, and Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Circle K is a service club which helps students become involved in the world and its needs. The club sponsored many projects during the year, including house renovation for a needy family, the Downtown Church Center's afterschool program, the Special Olympics, and UNICEF world hunger projects. Circle K also sponsored two fundraisers.

International Club strives to provide a link between foreign students and American students, and to teach us about different cultures. This year the International Club sponsored a French day in the refectory. The day began with a traditional French breakfast, and then later continued with a delicious lunch. Dinner was buffet style, and as with the previous meals, proved to be entirely scrumptious. After-dinner entertainment in the French manner included can-can dancers, French skits, and French singers.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is a group for the close friendship of those who share the same religious beliefs: Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship also works towards bridging the gap between Christians and non-Christians; they work towards educating the Salem community about the ways of the Lord. Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship sponsored a panel discussion/spaghetti dinner in conjunction with the Campus Ministries group. The topic for discussion was "Where does God fit in our lives?" There was mouth-watering spaghetti and homemade bread, and balloons were shaped into animals for every guest.

Salem has various outlets available to students who wish to express themselves in a creative manner. These outlets appear in many forms. Artistic programs at Salem include April Arts, Chorale, Dansalems, Pierettes, Archways, and Incunabula.

April Arts is a special time in April which is devoted to the arts. This annual event incorporates music, crafts, and dance programs into a week-long exhibition for those interested in creative endeavors. At the end of the week, a festival is held in the square. The chairman of April Arts this year was Charlotte Daves.

The Chorale is an outlet for Salem students who possess musical talent. They present a concert at the Candlelight Service at Christmas, a Spring Concert, and go on tour in various cities. This year, the Chorale is under the direction of Robert Ward.

Dansalems is Salem's student-run dance group. They strive to promote an appreciation of modern dance, to develop dance techniques, and to plan, choreograph and present concerts. A major performance is held in the Spring. Dansalems, led this year by Kim Rowland, work in conjunction with Ms. Ruffy to plan and learn dance routines.

The Pierette Players strive to stimulate interest in drama in our community, and to encourage students to actively participate in this fine art. The Pierette Players perform two plays each year. In the fall, they presented "The Boyfriend," and in the spring, "Vanities" was performed.

The Archways are a student-organized and student-directed group of talented Singers. They perform several concerts each year for various civic groups in the Winston-Salem area, and for events on campus. Because it is entirely student-directed, there is a lot of room for creativity on the part of group members. This year, Elizabeth Combs served as president and Molly Moore served as director.

Incunabula, Salem's art and literary magazine, is yet another way for Salem students to exhibit their creative talents in our community. The magazine contains the artwork, photography, prose, essays, cartoons, and many other forms of expression that students submit. Incunabula strives to stimulate productivity of original thought and to foster interest throughout the college in the arts. Malinda McCall is the editor of Incunabula this year.

Through these many organizations, Salem's students express themselves in a number of ways. Participation in these activities allows for a broader college experience.

Various clubs exist at Salem which promote the interest and opportunities of various majors. These organizations are primarily composed of students who are majoring in the subject, but other interested students are welcome to join. These clubs include S.E.E.M., Symphony Guild, S.N.E.A., and Model U.N..

S.E.E.M., the Sociology, Economics, Economics-Management club, is designed to help interested students learn more about the career opportunities available to them. S.E.E.M. sponsors lectures by people in different occupations in these fields, and also attempts to open doors for possible internships for students.

The Salem College Symphony Guild Supports and promotes the growth of the Winston-Salem Symphony Guild. They also provide charitable and educational services for the Symphony. Members often serve as ushers for concerts, and visit local grade schools to promote symphony interest. Claire Greer is head of the Symphony Guild.

S.N.E.A., the Student National Education Association, helps students who plan to pursue education as a career. S.N.E.A. sponsors discussions and lectures on topics of interest to educators.

Model U.N. is an organization which lets students participate in a model session of the United Nations. The group spends many hours preparing research and practicing for the conference which is held in New York. This year, Salem's delegation represented Egypt at the conference. Christie Mock served as the head delegate.

In Closing . . .

When we first accepted our positions as co-editors of the yearbook, both of us were highly motivated to make this Salem's best yearbook ever — we wanted to add more copy to the book, use less white space and more pictures, and generally make the book more enjoyable for all. We wanted to do our part in raising school spirit by incorporating the special aspects of life at Salem into our theme.

But it takes more than motivation alone to fulfill expectations — it also takes support. And we were very fortunate in that area.

Thanks must first go to a great staff. A lot of people worked very hard for us, and their work reflects their dedication. A special thanks goes to our photography editor, George Gloninger. She spent many long hours in the darkroom printing hundreds of pictures, and always came through for us when we needed her. Additional thanks must go to our business manager, Elizabeth Spencer. Elizabeth worked hard to expand our ad and patron section to earn some much needed extra spending money to put towards the book. Karla Caudle also deserves thanks for her work on our organizations section.

A very special thanks goes to our benevolent advisor, Dr. Cindy Farris. Dr. Farris gave us the support and encouragement we needed to complete the book, and always had a smile and kind word for us when we were at our wits end. She is also a very good cook, which did wonders for our motivation! Our assistant advisor, Dr. Elizabeth Dull also deserves special appreciation for her encouragement and support throughout the year.

Finally, thanks must go to all of the students and faculty on campus who have had so much faith in us. Your support has been so valuable to us; we hope that we have fulfilled everyone's expectations by producing a book that all can enjoy.

Our intent this year was to capture on paper as much of Salem's charm as possible. And if we were able to share at least some of Salem's uniqueness and save some of the special memories of the past year, then all of the hard work and effort that went into making this book possible was well worthwhile.

Our sincerest thanks to all,

Amanda State

Kim Wally
